

ABSTRACT

A merchandise order entry system is provided with a multi level order entry screen. The screen includes one or more profile fields each of which can have different order parameters such as different credit card numbers, and bill to and ship to addresses. A remote user can, in addition to entering orders, edit, delete or create profile fields.

[illegible]